Pelham

About the area

Dating back to 1654, Pelham is a quaint and charming Village on 2.2 square miles, with a population of 12,500, located 14 miles east of Midtown Manhattan. It is the oldest town in Westchester County. There is a deep sense of community reinforced by a commitment to education, the arts, sports, culture, and civic responsibility. The housing stock and architecture are as varied and unique as its residents, who bring a wealth of life experiences and interests to daily living in this very special town.
